

Is it hard for others to earn your trust?

Does it feel like your emotions control you?

Do you find yourself
engaging in impulsive behaviors?

If so, researchers at the University of Kentucky and the Ohio State University are inviting you to participate in

A TREATMENT STUDY ON BORDERLINE PERSONALITY DISORDER

Eligible participants will be provided cognitive behavioral therapy at no cost.

In addition to attending up to 19 weekly therapy sessions, research participation will involve completing a diagnostic interview to confirm eligibility, attending 3 follow up interviews, and completing online questionnaires.

All study visits may take place in-person or via telehealth. Participants will be compensated for the completion of follow-up assessments.

You might be eligible if you:
